2009

Since 1995, the Wake Forest Area Artists' Studio Tour has served as the #1 promotion of talented artists and crafters in the greater Wake Forest area. This educational tour provides an opportunity for the community to interact with the artists as they present their talents in a non-formal studio setting. Several artists have "buddied up" to allow our visitors more time to visit, shop and support this creative profession. See where it all begins and recognize that this is a craft that we spend a lifetime perfecting!

These maps are not drawn to exact scale. The maps are drawn to give you a visual guide and help you find the studios you would like to visit. All studios are located just one or two roads off the labeled road. Just follow the signs to the studio entrance!

Plan your route ahead of time. The Studio Tour takes place over two consecutive weekends in September and most studios are located within an approximate 7-mile radius of downtown Wake Forest. We recommend visiting your "must see" studios first and prioritize your stops accordingly. Visit our website www.ArtistsStudioTour.com for complete artist bios and additional photos of the artists' work.

Artwork from each artist will be on display at the Powers-Ludas house beginning at 9am on Saturdays and noon on Sundays. Make this your first stop to view all artists' work and plan your route prior to visiting the studios. 112 North Ave, Wake Forest

Oh, to see the work of all these wonderfully talented artists...

We realize it may be an enjoyable challenge to visit with every artist and see every studio in the time allowed. Please take your time to carefully plan your route. Some studios are businesses and remain open year round, giving you ample time to visit them and some studios have more than one artist allowing you to view more work with one stop. All our artists use the Studio Tour as an opportunity for inspiring others while encouraging respect and recognition of our local arts community.

Come back often. This publication may be kept for reference to our area artists, businesses and organizations, all of which continually support the arts. Many of the artists will be happy to welcome you to their home studios by appointment and the businesses may serve you in whatever capacity they are able. We work together for a well rounded community and welcome you at any time. Thank you for visiting.
